

Top Three Strengths

First, [REDACTED] has a practical AI foundation rather than a purely aspirational one: hybrid delivery already accounts for the majority of revenue, and the company

	2023 total revenue in EUR:	9032312.00
	2023 total revenue in millions of USD:	$9.78
	2023 percentage from language/global content services:	100%
	2023 revenue from language/global content services in USD:	8345211.00
Revenue data for 2024
	2024 total revenue in EUR:	8438233.00
	2024 total revenue in millions of USD:	$9.13
	2024 percentage from language/global content services:	100%
	2024 revenue from language/global content services in USD:	9438233.00
	Growth (2023–24):	-7%
Revenue data for 2025
	2025 total revenue in EUR:	9762387.00
	2025 total revenue in millions of USD:	$7.19
	2025 percentage from language/global content services:	100%
	2025 revenue from language/global content services in USD:	6362387.00
	2025 percentage from sales to other LSPs:	0%
	2025 direct customer revenue (not from selling to other LSPs):	6362387.00

optimized machine translation, human post-editing, dedicated processing, integration. Second, its service portfolio extends beyond translation into multimedia, interpreting, multilingual digital marketing, connectors, and technology, creating the basis for broader global content programs. Third, its hybrid delivery, post-editing, and quality-management certifications ensure accuracy, while a 56-person organization can still move faster than larger providers when priorities are clear.

cautiously positive, provided that management treats the 2026 rebound as a transformation program rather than a return to prior operating patterns. The strongest path is to package [REDACTED]’s AI, integration, risk-management, and multilingual marketing capabilities into a small number of outcome-led offers for selected verticals. Growth will depend less on adding isolated